

Unnatural Disaster: Puerto Rico after the Hurricane

Monday, March 12, 4:30-6:20
Green Dolphin Lounge (Building 1C)

Four months after Hurricane Maria tore a path of destruction through Puerto Rico, thousands remain without power and face joblessness, foreclosures and major health threats. This is not a natural disaster. It grows out of a history and social context shaped by colonialism, economic dependence and debt. Join us to discuss this history and the current situation.

Guest Speakers

Marisol Lebrón
Dickinson College

Hilda Lloréns
University of Rhode Island

Sponsors:

- * Program in Latin American, Caribbean and Latina/o Studies (LACLS)
- * Department of Sociology and Anthropology
- * Masters Program in Liberal Studies (MALS)

CLUE CREDIT

