Tuesday
March 3
6:30-8:00pm

Launched by the Pratt Center for Community Development in 2016, the Neighborhood Data Portal is a free, online data mapping platform that integrates up to dozens of datasets that break down NYC by the numbers. This free training will be led by Pratt Center's Geographic Information Systems Specialist Sadra Shahab and will demonstrate how you can use this tool to apply and visualize neighborhood data to develop impactful programs.

No prior data analysis or mapping experience is needed.
Perfect for entrepreneurs, community based organizations, small business owners, community leaders, and anyone interested in open data.

Refreshments will be served.
