

Spring 2024 Scholarly Publishing Workshops: Focus on Contracts and Copyright

This spring, the Graduate Center's Mina Rees Library is offering four online workshops about publication contracts, copyright, and related topics. All members of the CUNY community are welcome, regardless of campus. The workshops are especially well suited to faculty, graduate students, administrators, and others who seek to formally publish or otherwise disseminate their work.

Each workshop stands on its own — there is no need to attend one in order to attend another. Simply register for whichever one(s) speak to your interests or needs. (If there's a workshop that interests you that you can't make, register anyway. The presentations will be recorded and shared with all registrants.)

Journal Article Contracts: Understanding and Retaining Your Rights as an Author

When: Friday, February 9 at 11am–noon

Where: Zoom (link sent upon registration)

Full details and registration: <https://gc-cuny.libcal.com/event/11907116>

Copyright and Fair Use for Scholarly Authors

When: Friday, March 15 at 11am–noon

Where: Zoom (link sent upon registration)

Full details and registration: <https://gc-cuny.libcal.com/event/11907119>

Understanding Creative Commons Licenses

When: Friday, April 5 at 11am–noon

Where: Zoom (link sent upon registration)

Full details and registration: <https://gc-cuny.libcal.com/event/11907121>

Understanding and Negotiating Book Publication Contracts

When: Friday, May 3 at 11am–noon

Where: Zoom (link sent upon registration)

Full details and registration: <https://gc-cuny.libcal.com/event/11907134>